

DREAM HOMES FOR SPORTSMEN

Much more than merely a place to hang his hat, the sportsman's home is a reflection of his soul—no doubt a manifestation of his pursuit of wild things. Join us on the following tour of homes that truly epitomize the sporting life.

Lone View Ranch

A rustic and spacious home with views as grand as the big Montana sky
Photography by Saul Creative

Lone View Ranch is a recreational gem within Montana's large, diverse, and exceptionally appealing Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem. Trophy elk and an abundance of wildlife roam the 2,631-acre ranch. This backcountry is accessed by foot or horseback and adjoins the wilderness known as "Cowboy Heaven" with numerous streams and lakes. Additionally, there is world-class fishing on the Madison and Gallatin rivers and in Yellowstone Park.

The ranch sits in an ideal location near the Madison River bordering Lee Metcalf Wilderness Area and the resort communities of Ennis and Big Sky. The property is accessible from a private road that connects Ennis and the Madison Valley to the premier resort area of Big Sky 13 miles to the east. Altogether, the property is laced with 16 miles of ranch roads.

Lone View Ranch offers spectacular vistas in every direction. The custom log home and its extended outdoor living spaces immerse one in the incredible palate of Montana wildlife, fauna, and vistas. Even with the vast landscapes of the Rocky Mountain West, it is a challenge to find a property that encompasses all of the criteria most often cited by buyers including: convenient access, well watered, wildlife abundance, on-site sporting and recreation, private access, year-round accessibility, proximity to urban conveniences, topographic diversity, and gorgeous scenery.

Rarely do properties come on the market blessed with virtually all of the amenities that comprise greatness. These properties remain in family hands for generations, and if eventually destined for sale, they often transfer quietly into the hands of friends or neighbors who have coveted the property over time.

In real estate parlance, these are known as legacy properties and The Lone View Ranch is such a place. It boasts all of the attributes mentioned above and many additional ones. Furthermore, it is just a short drive from Ennis, Montana, and it adjoins Moonlight Basin, with private entrance to the resort and the Big Sky Resort communities. The resort offers all-season recreation opportunities from golf to world-class downhill and cross-country skiing.

For more information visit livewaterproperties.com. ■

A massive river rock fireplace frames one end of the living room at Lone View Ranch. The big picture windows offer a spectacular view of Fan Mountain. Right: This section of the room displays African and North American game mounts on a log wall. Opposite: A split-log stairway leads up to the media room and two guest rooms beneath a lofty ceiling of knotty pine.

